STILL SLENDER CHANCE

A slender chance of arbitration in the present critical railroad situation is seen in the agreement on the part of the engineers and firemen to continue the negotiations with the mediation board, although the conferences were supposed to have ended Sunday.

The enginemen are expected to give an answer on the arbitration proposition today.

CASE TAKES BANK PROBE

Ass't State's Att'y Case, who has been ill for a week, took charge of the state probe of the LaSalle Bank today. He has obtained several records from the federal government and expects to get speedy action by the special grand jury. Meanwhile federal grand jury is investigating alleged loans made by bank to down-state enterprises.

"Yes, my dear, I have a good excuse for spending half the day playing golf. I am the original Tired Business Man."

"What makes you so tired?"
"Why, playing golf."

To clean brass flower-pots or trays, rub them with a piece of lemon; then pour boiling water over them, and finally polish with a soft dry cloth.
